

Ladies' Literary Club.

The formal opening of the Ladies' Literary club for the year 1901-1902 took place Friday afternoon under the most auspicious circumstances. The room was well filled, nearly all the members being present, besides a number of invited guests. The club house has been thoroughly renovated during the summer and the rooms look very pretty with their newly tinted walls and fresh coat of paint. Artistic decorations in palms, ferns and flowers brightened the pleasing effect. The platform was banked with a variety of palms and formed an attractive background for the president as she stood to deliver her inaugural address. On the table at her side was a bouquet of long-stemmed American Beauties. Mrs. Jennings began by wishing the club a happy New Year. She said it had commenced work under more prosperous conditions than ever before and the vacation which had been an entire rest for mind and body, should be followed by a renewed vigor and a desire to surpass all former efforts. The handsome year book, giving a programme of unequalled merit, the improvement in the club rooms and the freedom from debt were most auspicious, although the obligations of the club could not be considered as entirely discharged until the individual members were paid. She made a special plea for increased membership and exhorted each one to direct her personal efforts towards making the club of decided numerical value. The idea was advanced of setting aside certain evenings in which the doors were thrown open and the courtesy of the club extended to outsiders. By a presentation of programmes on evenings when school teachers, clerks or people of daily employment could be present, the club would be exerting a broader influence for good. The president expressed her realization of the qualifications for the successful administration of the office which had devolved upon her. She closed with the wish that all the efforts of the club should be genuine and enthusiasm should rule every action. Often a great incentive to work is the generous appreciation expressed by others, and the club members should not be chary of this expression. She said: "The prologue has been spoken, it rests with you to say what the epilogue shall be."

Instrumental music was charmingly rendered by Miss Leary. After the reports of the various officers and section of a mountain either in Liberty park or the center of town. The afternoon closed with light refreshments.

Reaper's Club.

The Reapers' club held its first meeting of the year at the office of the Woman's Exponent on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. After current items, given by different members of the club, the afternoon was devoted to unfinished business, part of which was laid aside for further consideration at the next meeting. A new programme committee, consisting of Mrs. K. N. Thomas, chairman, Mrs. Mary L. Morris and Mrs. C. J. Trese, was elected to serve for one year.

Club Notes.

Mr. Eugene C. Heddy will give a recital at the Ladies' Literary club rooms, under the auspices of the Music section, about the second week in October. The programme promises to be of unusual interest.

The Woman's club holds its first meeting the first Tuesday in October. The club's work, which has hitherto been along lines of municipal reform, will embrace the study of Russian and German history and the history of our colonies.

The Daughters of the Revolution meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the office of the Woman's Exponent.

The Daughters of the American Revolution expect to develop the social side of their club life to a large extent this year.

The ladies of Unity Circle entertain at a Kensington on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. C. E. Watson.

The programme committee of the Euterpe club will meet during the week at the residence of Mrs. F. J. Fabian, president, to plan the winter's work. A series of comedies will be presented in connection with the winter's study.

The Pan-Hellenic holds its first meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. Glen Miller, the last Thursday in September.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Republican club will be held at the residence of Mrs. Joseph Young, 849 East First South street on the first Monday in October. It will be a business and social meeting. All members are invited to be present.

Provo, Sept. 13.—The Nineteenth century club met at the home of Mrs. Havercamp. Mrs. De Moseley gave a paper upon "The Early Inhabitants of Holland." Mrs. Buckler one upon "Roman Occupations and Influence," and Mrs. Goodwin upon "The Prisoners." Miss Searle, who is in Michigan, sent a paper, "The Franks in the Netherlands," which was read by Mrs. Searle. This was the beginning of our historical study of Holland. The study will continue for two meetings each month, and promises to be full of interest. The first meeting of each month will be devoted to literature, and the last to educational and social topics.

After the programme some time was spent discussing plans for the State Federation of Women's clubs, which is to meet in Provo the last week in October.

"We Have Not Wings,"

we cannot soar;
But we have feet to scale and climb
By slow degrees, by more and more,
The cloudy summit of our time."

---Longfellow.

When you get into the literature volumes of the HOME STUDY CIRCLE LIBRARY, enthusiasm stirs you to the very depths.

Here is value that you cannot measure.

Here is familiar intercourse with many great and noble minds.

Here is a power, a limitless force, ready to help you upward if you want to climb.

Here is spread out in clear relief before you the stirring panorama of over half a hundred famous lives.

Never comes the time in any life when inspiration to nobler things is not a need. You get it in ample measure in these volumes.

TO READ WHAT'S GIVEN OF LONGFELLOW WILL THOROUGHLY CONVINCE YOU.

The Biographical study in volume 10 illuminates and fascinates.

The numerous critical articles that follow are from the pens of very distinguished writers.

The readers' and students' notes---a chart of Longfellow's works---are very valuable.

The illustrative readings exhibit the poet's powers at their best.

The portraits and other illustrations have an excellence that fit the lofty subject.

The FRONTISPIECE to Volume 10 is a BEAUTIFUL HALF-TONE PORTRAIT of LONGFELLOW in old age. This volume also contains a Fine Illustration of LONGFELLOW'S HOME---The Craigie House---Cambridge, Mass., once the headquarters of Washington. Of this home Longfellow writes:

"Once, ah once, within these walls,
One whom memory oft recalls,
The Father of His Country dwelt.
Up and down these echoing stairs,
Heavy with the weight of cares,
Sounded his majestic tread."

---LONGFELLOW.

This Library especially meets the needs of that large class of people WHO DO NOT HAVE ACCESS TO A PUBLIC LIBRARY, and have not and cannot buy the hundreds of volumes from which this information has been gleaned and arranged by FIFTY-SEVEN OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST EDUCATORS AND INSTRUCTORS.

The Herald has spent THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS of Dollars in their determination to make this the best Library that money can buy, and the increasing demand for the Library is conclusive evidence that we have succeeded beyond our expectations. HUNDREDS OF HOMES in Utah are already blessed with the Library and THOUSANDS MORE will be.

Remember, you should WASTE NO TIME in securing this Library, as the OPPORTUNITY for getting it on such favorable terms is FAST SLIPPING AWAY

The Ladder of St. Augustine

St. Augustine! well hast thou said,
That of our vices we can frame
A ladder, if we will but tread
Beneath our feet each deed of shame!

All common things, each day's events,
That with the hour begin and end,
Our pleasures and our discontents,
Are rounds by which we may ascend.

The low desire, the base design,
That makes another's virtues less;
The revel of the ruddy wine,
And all occasions of excess;

The longing for ignoble things;
The strife for triumph more than truth;
The hardening of the heart, that brings
Irreverence for the dreams of youth;

All thought of ill; all evil deeds,
That have their root in thought of ill;
Whatever hinders or impedes
The action of the nobler will--

All these must first be trampled down
Beneath our feet, if we would gain
In the bright fields of fair renown
The right of eminent domain.

We have not wings, we cannot soar;
But we have feet to scale and climb
By slow degrees, by more and more,
The cloudy summits of our time.

The mighty pyramids of stone
That wedge-like close the desert air
When nearer seen and better known
Are but gigantic flights of stairs.

The distant mountains that appear
Their solid bastions to the skies,
Are crossed by pathways that appear
As we to higher levels rise.

The heights by great men reached and kept
Were not attained by sudden flight,
But they, while their companions slept,
Were toiling upward in the night.

Standing on what too long we bore
With shoulders bent and downward eyes,
We may discern--unless before--
A path to higher destinies.

Nor deem the irrevocable Past
As wholly wasted, wholly vain,
If, rising on its wrecks, at last
To something nobler we attain.
---Henry Wadsworth Longfellow
